

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Personal. "I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."

Mrs. HERMAN SMITH, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

ADVANCE SALE FOR MERRY FARCE WILL OPEN TOMORROW

"Don't Lie to Your Wife" Attraction in Elks' Theater Friday Night Promises to Be Winner.

The advance sale of seats for "Don't Lie to Your Wife," the second of the attractions of the season, which will be played in the Elks' theater Friday, October 20, will open at Matson's at a reduced, low-price, morning. Confident that the show is a good one, Manager Frank Matson is arranging to entertain a big house.

How Dave Lewis Chose Casati's Play. There is a general belief among people who work around theaters that it is impossible to foresee the success or failure of a play until it has actually been produced. Even the greatest dramatists sometimes write the most dismal failures. In the case of "Don't Lie to Your Wife," which was loudly heralded and proved to be a great deal more than anyone imagined it could be.

When Dave Lewis received the manuscript of Campbell H. Casati's farce "Don't Lie to Your Wife," now directed by Rowland and Clifford, he tucked it into his pocket to read on the journey between Philadelphia and New York. Before the train had reached Trenton, Lewis was rolling in his chair, shrieking with laughter. Even with that recommendation, he did not dare to go against the conventional or the theater, but decided to "try it on the day," the particular caution in this instance being Atlantic City. He selected his actors and actresses much as one selects common actors for the kitchen in a ten-cent store. He left his partner, Al Field, rehearsing the harem in New York and proceeded off to Atlantic City, as his own advance man. He did what little press work he could, and the day before the opening was to arrive, by pre-arrangement with his partner, he received a telegram stating that the scenery would not be ready. At home was being prepared, the telegram told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. He went to the manager of the theater and a long face told him the story. Together they went back on the stage and selected various scenery from the lines stock.

Rowland and Clifford is managing Mr. Lewis' tour, and this firm has given this play an excellent mounting. The supporting cast is perfect in every detail, with Lewis' beauty character very manifest.

led, the boy is handled in absolutely clean case, lined with calico and iron on zinc, and the interior is painted twice daily with steam. The ice is handled by employees dressed in white, such as suits and caps, and rubber gloves all of which are purchased by the company. Employees are required, sufficiently in advance of arrival at the station, to prepare themselves for the handling of the ice. The ice, however, is handled with rubber gloves, and from the time of its manufacture until the time it reaches the receptacle in the case it is protected against contamination.

all, was killed by his own patrol with all the pomp and ceremony befitting a soldier. It was the first funeral ever conducted by the Boy Scouts in America.

As the child lay dying after the accidental shooting that he himself was responsible for, his last whispered request was that he be buried in his Boy Scout uniform, attended by his patrol.

Over the little lay the flag of the patrol—the flag every child had given his last whispered request to his patrol.

The pallbearers were all children of Andrew's own patrol, the Black Hawk. At the head of the ranks of the children walked S. C. Houston, the commissioner's aid of the Boy Scouts of Denver, who made all the arrangements for the funeral. Following Houston came the children of the hospital corps, with the red cross of their field uniforms bound on their arms. The rank and file of the two patrols walked two abreast in the rear.

The final recitative of Father Galvan and the two altar boys was heard bravely through the snuffled sobs of the mother, and of the kneeling little soldiers.

Then arose a sound, clear and thrilling. Every bowed head was lifted to the blue sunlit sky as the lay leader of the Black Hawk patrol finally sounded taps over the grave of his little comrade.
